

system application by comparison to the original capacity when only a single-film carries both sound and picture. For example, a twenty-minute single-system capacity is reduced to about thirteen minutes with the double system.

In summary, the technique presented permits the selection of any of four audio tracks and assures immediate synchronization between sound and picture. The system can be constructed easily through modification of existing equipment. Operation is simple and continuous, and the equipment is lightweight and portable.

Editor's Note: At the Convention the author showed a prototype of the equipment and demonstrated the four-track sound.
