New Members

The following members have been added to the Society's rolls since the September 1970 Journal. Also listed are those regretfully reported as deceased since then. The designations of grades are the same as those used in the July 1970 Directory. An up-to-date list of the Sustaining Members appears on the outside back cover of each month's Journal. The members listed below complete the Society's roll as of October 16.

The Directory for Members, Part II of the July 1970 Journal, shows the geographic membership distribution by states included in the Sections.

To get "match-tested" chemicals for Kodak films, there's no place like home.

It stands to reason. Kodak created and manufactured the films you process. These films are the finest we can produce because of endless testing during manufacture. Naturally, we use Kodak chemicals to test our films. We call it "Match-Testing" because the films are matched to the chemicals and vice versa. So if you're not using Kodak chemicals in your processing, you can't be sure you're getting the finest processing.

"Match-Testing" is actually the final test for Kodak chemicals. There are many more before that. We test the initial ingredients, the mixed ingredients, and the finished chemical. We even test the packaging, so it comes to you in the best condition.

To make it easier to get the Kodak chemicals you need, when you need them, we recently announced a direct "One-Stop Shopping Service" for chemicals. Kodak warehouses throughout the country provide speedy delivery in whatever amounts you need.

Speaking of amounts, some Kodak chemicals such as Kodak Color Developing Agent, CD-2 or CD-3, come in handy 50-pound drum sizes that are hard to find elsewhere.

We top everything off with extensive and readily available technical resources. After all, as we said earlier, we made the films in the first place, and we like all our films to have happy endings.

Talk to your Kodak Sales and Engineering Representative about our chemicals, or call the nearest Kodak office listed below.

Our new krypton-halogen replacement for the PS52 fits the same fixture, lasts twice as long and maintains constant color temperature for life.

That's some replacement.

New DSF 1500-watt krypton-halogen studio lamp.

PS52 1500-watt incandescent studio lamp.

When you replace a PS52 studio lamp you can replace it with something better.

The something better is Sylvania's DSF krypton-halogen lamp, which fits the same fixture as the PS52.

Its average rated life is 250 hours. More than twice the life of the PS52.

And that's useful life, because the DSF is as bright at the end of its life as it was at the beginning. There's no darkening with age as in the PS52.

And its 3200° K color temperature is there right from the beginning. And it's still there 250 hours later. Constant.

The DSF has low-noise construction. There are no loose parts to resonate when used with SCR dimmers.

With all these advantages, the DSF is more than a replacement.

It's a major improvement.
