The description of The Journal Award was incorrectly published. The following is the correct version:

The Journal Award

Journal Award Certificates shall be presented to the authors of the two most outstanding papers originally published in the Journal of the Society during the preceding calendar year. Papers published in the Journal are eligible only if previous publication was by the Society.

(a) The papers must deal with technical subjects of major interest to the Society, one in the field of motion pictures, and the other in the field of television. The fields of motion picture and television should not be construed to be so restrictive that excellent scientific papers not completely within these disciplines be excluded from consideration.

(b) No paper given in connection with the receipt of any other award of the Society shall be eligible.

(c) In judging the merits of the paper, three qualities shall be considered, with weights here indicated: (1) technical merit, 45 percent; indicates thorough understanding of the subject resulting in an outstanding contribution; (2) originality, 35 percent; shows new and unique study on the subject; (3) presentation, 20 percent; shows excellent clarity in the organization of the subject matter. During the voting stages, each of the three categories should be judged on the basis of 100 percent. After the ballots are submitted to the chairman, the weighting factors of 45, 35 and 20 percent should be applied respectively to the three headings.

(d) The Editorial Vice-President shall appoint the Chairman and members of each new Journal Award Committee. In addition to the Chairman, the Committee shall consist of four members, one selected from each group of three candidates proposed by the four Affairs Vice-Presidents. The Committee is to be approved by the Board of Governors at the time of the Fall Conference. This will allow the Committee to begin functioning by January 1st permitting them to review the following twelve issues of the Journal. During the next year the Committee would be in the position to make recommendations to the Board for presentation at the Fall Conference.
